who repack butter, or pack the small pect. Some of our dealers have received quite large invoices of butter of straight, uniform color, thus gathered in small lots at country stores; and when properly handled, it is found to be regarded a very passable substitute for dairy butter. Such butter should be carefully selected by an expert, each shade packed by itself in neat firkins, each firkin to contain about 100 pounds net. Such packages are best adapted to home trade, shipment South, or elsewhere.

Roll butter, if shipped at all in that shape, which is questionable, should be packed with great care in neat, new half barrels. Each roll should be wrapped in bleached muslin, saturated with strong brine. It will then command attention in cold weather, and meet with ready sale at good prices. The margin between the price obtained for roll butter so packed, and that of the same quality indifferently packed in large dry goods and boot and shoe boxes and second hand flour and sugar barrels, is very large, and will more than pay for suitable barrels.

4. What is lost.—Dealers assert, in general terms, that the West loses hundreds of thousands, and some say millions, of dollars annually because of the indifferent quality of the butter made there, and the improper shape and condition in which it reaches market. Figures tell the most emphatic tales in this matter. Let us see what the latest market reports say: Our last quotations at this writing make the difference in value between common and good butter in this market thirteen cents per pound; i. e., good butter will sell for thirteen cents more per pound to-day in this market than the poorest quality. There is a great difference between common and choice. But, taking the difference in price between common and good, and supposing only one fifth of the production in Illinois is sold as common, we see what Illinois would have lost in 1896 if it had sold all its butter as choice.

She produced in that year 28,052,55 lbs., according to the United States census. One fifth of that amount is 5,610,510 lbs. She produces much more to-day. Now, at the present rate of differences between good and poor butter in the market, she would have lost that year $729,366, supposing only one-fifth of her butter had been poor!

By reference to our monthly quotations of butter for 1866, published the first day of the present month, it will be seen that the difference in the maximum quotations of prime and common butter during the year, ranges from 5 to 10 cents. There were only three months when this difference was below 10 cents and only five months when it was not above 10 cents. It is fair to call the average difference 12 cents. The quotations referred to, grade butter is "common," "medium," and "prime." Taking the product of the States of Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Kansas and Nebraska, for 1860, we will divide it into three parts, to correspond with the above grades. One third of the butter production of the above named States in 1860 amounted to 25,494,669 lbs. Call one third common butter with an average difference between it and prime of 12 cents per pound, the difference amounts to the handsome sum of $3,052,760 28. We suppose another third was "medium" butter. The difference between the maximum quotation of medium and prime butter ranges from three to twelve cents per pound. If we put the average at seven cents per pound, the aggregate difference in the value of the medium one third as compared with the prime one third, amounts to $1,785,776 83. And thus the two-thirds of the crop of 1860 that fell below a prime quality would have given the States an aggregated sum of $4,838,537 11, had it all brought prime prices.

It is not unsafe to say that the State named have lost far more the past year as a difference between prime and inferior butter; for one-third is too large a proportion to call prime, judging by the arrivals in this market. And yet, it should be remembered that it costs little if any more, to put on this market price butter than the common grades. It does cost something more for packages; but the difference in cost is not at all adequate to consume this enormous difference in the market value of the product.

6. Advice.—At the close, we have a few words of advice to dairymen and country dealers: 1. Make, or get, good butter if you can. 2. Keep it where and so that it will lose no good qualities. 3. Learn from your city factor what style of packages will sell best, and conform to his advice, if he is a man you can rely upon. 4. Ship it only when it is safe to ship, and when it will not deteriorate en route to market. 5. Ship some one who knows how to handle a horse, and has a place to keep butter properly.

National Equal Rights League.

A National Convention of the Equal Rights Leagues of the country, is now being held at Washington. It is composed wholly of colored men. Among the resolutions adopted by the Convention are the following:

1. The right of the ballot, because we are American citizens, and entitled to
2. Because we are tax-payers, and therefore, justly entitled to representation in the State and Federal Government.

3. Because we are patriots, and such, have proved our loyalty by self-sacrificing behavior in the hour of our country's sorest trial.

4. Because it is a natural and herent right pertaining to every native born American, white or black, who reached his majority.

SNOW.

During the winter we have had as much snow as is ordinary to expect, but in the last three or four days it has overdone itself, and almost done everything else. Saturday afternoon the snow commenced falling very thick and fast, and on Sunday morning it was twelve inches deep on the level, and at the present writing the cry is "snow snow" and we will not pretend to say how deep it is, but know that after toiling up the hill at home, we can shake the flakes from our boots, sit by the fire and enjoy Whittier's "Snow Bound" immensely.

The lightness of the snow caused it to drift in all manner of shapes around corners and in low places.

We don't think this part of Indiana has been visited by such a snow storm for twenty years.

Sleigh riding will be the order of the day in a short time, and we shall merely hint that we are open to receive proposals for sleigh rides as long as the snow lasts. In the meantime let it snow, and if you want to see snow just walk (?) out home with us some evening.

Crosby's Opera House has been drawn, but we were not the lucky chap. If we were—but we ain't, so no more bones about it. One thing we do know, that T. C. Groome & Co. keep the best cigars, (we smoke them,) groceries, flour, meal, fruit, &c., in the market. Call at north west corner public square and make your purchases.

Some of our farmers think that the winter wheat was badly injured before the snow. Others are more sanguine. Would it not be well for farmers to inquire as to the possibility of raising good spring wheat on their lands, and if it is practicable now is the time to get at the work of procuring seed. The Spring wheat crop this year was good, and we hope that the farmers whose land will bring good spring wheat, will see to it that a good breadth is sown next spring in this county.

Godey's Lady's Book for February is an elegant number, with beautiful engravings, and well filled with interesting reading matter. Its fashion plates are of the most exquisite finish. It is one of the most attractive magazines of the day. Price only $2.50 per annum. Mrs. Sarah J. Hale and Louis A. Godey, Editors and Publishers, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

MITCHELL COMMERCIAL.—This is the name of a very neat paper, just started at Mitchell, Ind. It is published by Messrs. Woodward & Runkell—L. A. Woodward, Editor. This paper should receive a hearty support from the citizens of Mitchell, and the surrounding country. We wish the enterprising publisher much success in business.

HOUSE KEEPERS, when you buy D. B. De Land & Co.'s Best Chemical Salt, you will find every paper weighs a pound. Can you say the same about other Salter's?

SPENCER HOUSE.—It is with pleasure that we return our thanks to Messrs. Spapp and Canan, the gentlemen clerks at the Spencer, for repeated substantial courtesies shown us while sojourning in Indianapolis. We advise all, when visiting the city, to stop at this popular Hotel.

An old citizen living near New Lisbon, Henry county, was found dead in the field a few days ago. He had been hauling logs, and was lying by the side of the sled, upon which he had loaded a log; his horse being unhitched, and some yards from the sled.

THE OPERA HOUSE.—By the Journal from Indianapolis, we learn that $8,600 is the number of the ticket which drew the Crosby Opera House. It is understood that the lucky man is a German saloon keeper of that city, named John Wagner.

A lottery is advertised in Maryland for drawing comfortable berths in a burying ground.

COUNTRY EDITOR.—An exchange gives the following definition of a country editor: "A country editor is an individual who reads newspapers, writes articles on any subject, sets type, reads proof, folds and mails papers, prints job, runs errands, talks to all who call, receives the blame for a hundred things which are no one's business but his own, works from 5 a. m. to 10 p. m., and often gets cheated out of half his earnings."

DRAMATIC.—We learn with pleasure that our young friend, JOHN P. STONER, member of the Metropolitan Theatre, Indianapolis, has written a five act historical drama, entitled "The Council of the Ten," which is soon to be put upon the stage. We knew Johnny when he set type, and have watched with interest his course from the humble superintendency to the first walking gentleman of the Company. We hope his play will be received with applause and hearty endorsement.

How to Preserve Your Teeth—No. 5.

In the care that should be taken of the teeth, let me impress upon your minds the fact that from inception up they need the most fostering care to prevent the insidious attacks of the secretions and acids of the mouth, increased in power by neglect and carelessness, which promote the accumulation of substances in the mouth and between the teeth, which finally result in those agents so deleterious to the composition and structure of the teeth. This care and attention should not alone be confined to the permanent teeth, which are better able to bear the dangers to which they are exposed, but that the temporary set—those frail and ephemeral little models of beauty—depend greatly for existence upon the attention which they nearly always fail to receive. It seems to me that if parents could be made to understand how much pain could be prevented and spared their little ones, for whom they would sacrifice everything—even life itself—and the long and wakeful nights they are often compelled to pass, the many dollars to be expended in regulating and filling teeth, and, in fact, the thousand ills that might be avoided by timely attention, I am sure that parents would be thoroughly awake to their duty.

But leaving first dentition, we come more directly to the treatment of the permanent teeth. And need I say to an intelligent people that it is not only their privilege, but their duty to have their teeth filled when they decay. Pardon me if I urge this duty upon your minds. Are you fitted for any of the important duties of life without health? Is not the loss of health the result of a violation of one or more of the laws of nature? Is decayed teeth and diseased gums productive of good health? If not, what is your duty? Do you suppose that because you enjoy good health to-day you can go and violate the laws of life and health and never suffer for it? Let toothache, fascia neuralgia, and the thousand other ills that punish us, answer. Every violation of nature's wise and beneficent laws will bring its own punishment sooner or later. Then have your teeth filled, keep your gums healthy, and then keep your teeth clean, and you are safe from the ills that a neglect of those duties are always sure to bring. But some will say, I had my teeth filled, but they did not good; the plugs came out. In forty-nine cases out of fifty the person has waited too long; the teeth were so frail that it was impossible to make the work successful, and it was the work of bad dentistry, or else work has done more harm in creating an erroneous impression upon the minds of the people, viz: that filling teeth does no good.

The heaviest fall of snow that we have experienced for some years in this latitude took place yesterday. We suppose the average depth of the snow fall of yesterday in this city was about one foot. Our dispatches from all parts of the country last night show the storm to have been general. Railroad traveling will be extremely difficult for a few days. Some of the cities are quite blockaded. The street cars were kept running yesterday in this city by the use of snow plows and attaching four horses to each car.—Cin. Commercial.

THE GREAT NEW ENGLAND REMEDY, WHITE PINE COMPOUND

Is now offered to the afflicted throughout the country, after having been proved by the test of eleven years, in the New England States, where its merits have become as well known as the tree from which, in part, it derives its virtues.

The White Pine Compound Cures Sore Throat, Colds, Coughs, Diphtheria, Bronchitis, Spitting of Blood, and Pulmonary Affections generally. It is a powerful and reliable Remedy for Kidney Complaints, Diabetes, Difficulty of Urinating, Bleeding from the Kidneys, and Bladder, Gravel, and other complaints.

THE WHITE PINE COMPOUND. It was early in the spring of 1855 that this compound was originated. A member of my family, afflicted with an irritation of the throat, attended with a disagreeable cough, I had for months previous thought of a preparation having for its basis the inside bark of white pine might be so compounded as to be very useful in diseases of the throat and lungs. To test the value of it in the case alluded to, I compounded a small quantity of the medicine that I had been planning, and gave it in teaspoonful doses. The result was exceedingly gratifying. Within two days the irritation of the throat was removed, the cough subsided and a speedy cure was effected. Soon after this I sent some to a lady in Londonderry, N. H., who had been suffering for some weeks from a bad cough, occasioned by a sudden cold, and had passed numerous nights with blood-spitting. She took it, and sent for more. She took about ten ounces of it, and got well. J. B. Clarke, Esq., editor of the Manchester Daily Mirror made a trial of the same preparation in the case of a severe cold, and was cured immediately. He was so highly pleased with the results, and so confident in success attending its sales, if placed before the public, that he finally persuaded me to give it a trial. He sent it abroad to benefit the suffering. In November, 1855, I first advertised it under the name of White Pine Compound. In two years from that time there had been wholesale in Manchester alone one hundred and twenty cases of the compound, and it had been sold in every city, town, village and hamlet throughout the New England States.

This remedy is as safe and pleasant to take as it is effective.

The Editor of the Manchester Daily and Weekly Mirror, in the leader of the Daily Times writes of the compound: "The White Pine Compound is advertised at much length in our columns, and we are happy to learn that the demand for it is increasing beyond all previous expectations. It is the very best medicine for coughs and colds we know of, and no family that has ever used it will ever be without it. We speak from our own knowledge; it is sure to kill a cold; and pleasant as it is sure. The greatest inventions come by accident, and it is singular that the White Pine Compound, made for the cure of colds, should prove to be the greatest remedy for kidney difficulties known. But so it is. We cannot doubt it, so many testimonials come to us from well known men. Besides, the character of Dr. Poland is such that we know that he will not continue what is wrong. For years a Baptist clergyman, studying medicine to find remedies for his ailments, with a delicate, consumptive look, standing with one foot upon the grave, he made the discovery which has saved himself, and called out from others the strongest testimonials possible. We have known Dr. Poland for years, and never knew a more conscientious, honest, upright man, and are glad to state that we believe what ever he says about his White Pine Compound."

THE WHITE PINE COMPOUND, GEORGE W. SWEET, M.D., Proprietor, Prepared at the New England Botanical Depot, 106, Hanover Street, Boston. Under the Supervision of Rev. J. B.
